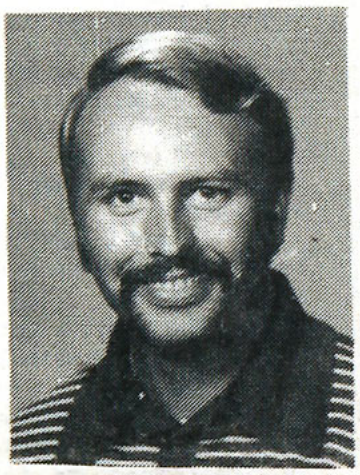
S.G.A. Elections March 21

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES

IN THE PAST two years I have been a head resident in Lee Marvin Hall. In a position like this, I cannot help but attain a form of leadership and responsibility.

Through the years at Saint Leo College I have found myself eminently involved. Being involved, I have often wondered why some activities are successful, while others have never left the ground. As Junior Class President and a member of the Campus Court, I have the experience of feeling both frustration and reward.



CHARLES AHERN, JR.

A number of other activities are: a member of the housing committee, an I.F.C. representative for KAE, and a member of Who's Who.

I feel that I have the background, the experience, and the potency of becoming the next President of Student Government Association.

Thank you,

Charles P. Ahern, Jr.

I HAVE BEEN an active member of the student Senate for the past two years, during which time I have served as the president pro tempore. Currently I am chairman of the Senate student rights and responsibilities committee, which was responsible for the establishment of the student bond service and which is also in the process of amending the statement of student rights and responsibilities that has recently passed the Senate and is being forwarded to the respective student and academic affairs councils for recommendation and finalization.

From what I have witnessed in two years in the Senate, I can contend that the voice of the Student Government Association is growing stronger and is becoming more effective. With the proper leadership this dynamism can be maintained. I

DENNIS HAYES

I ADDRESS THIS letter to the entire student body of Saint Leo College. Three years ago when I first came to Saint Leo, I had high aspirations for my college career. Today I find myself a candidate for the President of Student Government Association. During these past three years I can fully understand the necessity for a well organized and efficient Student Government Association. Since my freshman year I have witnessed many changes that have affected our student life both academically and socially. During my first year at Saint Leo, the Student Government Association was faced with the Visitation crisis that will go down in Saint Leo history as a turning point of the College. This was a start for organized Student Government Association and we have progressed ever since. Yet, the challenge of a strong representative and effective Student Government Association is an unending task geared to the benefit and well being of all students. I have been a

THE BOARD OF Club 67 met on Monday, March 12, and decided to close the Senior Class Bar for the remainder of the school year.

Many factors attributed to the decision, including the difficulty in preventing minors from illegally consuming beer. There have been several reported instances of security closing the bar for this reason.

Another contributing factor was the discrepancy between the purchases and the sales. The Senior Class has been having difficulty balancing the books, the reason being lack of control over the nightly income. They were also burdened with a $2,500 deficit inherited from last year's Senior Class, which had to be erased and cut into their profit. All these circumstances are making it most difficult for the Class to raise much needed money for Senior Week and Graduation.

Many of those responsible for operating Club 67 must now give their time in preparation for graduation activities and exams.

COMPOUNDING THE PROBLEMS facing the Club, the recently purchased stereo system, valued at $500, was stolen earlier this week. Campus Security is now following a lead, but no arrests have been made.

VICE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES

AT THIS TIME as candidate for the office of student body vice president, I would like to forward to the student body of Saint Leo College my ideas and goals that I would strive to see implemented. The office of the student body vice president has charge of the student Senate, which is the most powerful form of student voice we have on campus to govern our social as well as our domestic life. I cannot stress enough, after two years experience in the student Senate, that this body must be governed in a completely honest and unbiased fashion – this I know I can do – so that all factions of our campus will receive a "fair shake."

Since my freshman year within the student Senate, I have participated in such needed changes as the Visitation policy, trying to establish a food program that would be satisfactory to us as students, and have also been instrumental in the opening of the resident hall lounges through the student Senate and the office of the director of men.

At this point I would not like to ramble on with false promises. You have read a brief

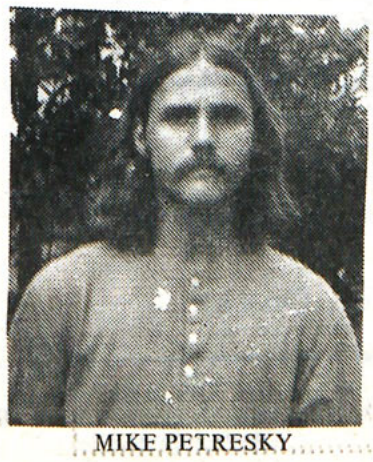
I'M A JUNIOR and have been at Saint Leo College for three years. For the past three years I've been working while going to school to pay off my own education. Now that my fourth year has arrived, I have accumulated enough money where I can do something for the student body and Saint Leo.



MIKE PETRESKY

While observing certain issues at Saint Leo, the biggest and most important issue that bothers me is the lack of interest by students to back school functions. To me one of the most important functions of the year is the elections itself. In last year's election not even 50% of the student body bothered to vote. I'd like to see everybody come out and elect me Vice President of the Student Government Association. "BUT," the most important thing is that you come out and vote. If you vote, bring a friend. Let's see a good turnout this year. Let's really show the administration that we are backing ourselves this year.

Thank you.

Editorial

IN FULFILLING WHAT we consider an obligation to the student community the Editorial Staff of Monarch convened to evaluate the candidates for President and Vice President of S.G.A., the most prestigious offices in the student governing system.

Not pretending to infallibility, we have included the sketches and responses to the questions posed, which served as the criteria for our appraisal.

The answers were written in the fashionable mode of political expression, saying little, much like our national demagogues. This was expected. However, the manner of their presentation, the logical formulation of thought and the readability warranted more important consideration.

We have ascertained by their answers that each candidate emphasizes student representation rather than direct leadership. They also espouse a more meaningful student voice and greater student rights, while declaring war on apathy.

THE REPLIES WERE not without inconsistencies or paradoxes, but were sincere in nature.

Little mention was given to the school newspaper. This is a trivial in itself, but paramount in conjunction with advocation of democracy and representation. Ask Thomas Jefferson.

The one candidate making mention of Monarch neglected to answer an important question, exhibiting a lack of knowledge in this area.

But let us not despair, for two candidates were obviously much more informed and thoughtful in their responses. Unfortunately, both are running for President.

THE DIFFICULTY OF endorsing one of these gentlemen stems from the various concepts of how the President can better benefit the student body.

If one believes the leader should possess the ability to skillfully debate the administration and effectively present the students' views, we suggest Dennis Hayes, who exhibits a much greater command of language, both verbally and written.

However, if one contends that our future lies in greater unity among students, we feel Timmy Gleason, armed with his congenial personality, could establish a greater rapport between students and S.G.A.

The preceding is a conclusion of three hours of debate. We are not saying that each is lacking in a certain skill, but giving an honest appraisal of their strengths.

WE ASK THAT each student arrive at their concept of how the President can best serve the students and vote accordingly.

Also, we endorse Kevin Callahan for Vice President.

believe that with my experience, ability, dedication, knowledge of the process and procedure of the SGA, and with my contact with the students of Saint Leo, I am the most qualified to offer that leadership.

I intend to continue to strive for a closer contact with those higher up in the echelon in order that the needs of the student body will be felt more closely. I will also insure that the students are well informed as to the progress of the Student Government Association of 1973-74; this is especially important as students continually have questions concerning the function and accomplishments of its representative body.

I AM A Saint Leo nominee to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, a brother of Kappa Alpha Sigma fraternity, and a political science major with a 3.56 cumulative average. I also coordinated the Open Forum that was held on the back patio of McDonald just prior to the 1972 presidential election.

I hope that all students come to hear the speeches next week in order that they may hear all the candidates and that they may better judge whom they would like as their SGA President next year.

member of our Student Senate for two years as both senator at large and junior class representative. I have also been a member of our Campus Court since its beginning because of my strong conviction to uphold and to protect our student rights. This past year I served the Court in the capacity of President. During my term as President of the Court, among other things, we initiated and supported the lowering of drug penalties on campus.

Along with my other responsibilities to the students at Saint Leo, I have also served as the vice president for Kappa Theta and as representative to the Inter Fraternity Council. I can write of my expectations for the future of Student Government Association, but my job is to listen and to represent you; to try to put in effect your wants and needs as students of Saint Leo College.

I am asking for your support and vote on March 21st to assure a continuation of effective and progressive student government.

Letter to the Editor –

Dear Editor:

STUDENT SERVICE at Saint Leo may have been dissolved "officially" but we know it lingers on thanks to a great number of students who still care about "their College."

Since January, approximately 100 students have stopped by the Development and Public Relations Office in Saint Francis Hall to stuff fund raising literature into envelopes for the College's mail appeals.

We appreciate the time all of you have given to help Saint Leo.

A sincere thanks,

Allan Powers and Staff, Development and Public Relations

P.S. Another mailing is in progress. Additional volunteers welcomed!

Monarch Merits "Mark of Distinction"

EARLIER THIS WEEK Monarch received the critique for the first semester Lion, issued by the Associated Collegiate Press, and was given the highest point total ever received by a Saint Leo newspaper. The Lion was also awarded its first "Mark of Distinction."

The A.C.P., whose base is the University of Minnesota, conducts a review each semester on all subscribing newspapers and rates each according to its production, with schools of comparative size and frequency of publication. The total illustrates a four semester consecutive despite a static budget and undermanned staff.

Editorial Leadership was the facet that merited the "Mark of Distinction." This award is given for "unusually high quality and especially creative or distinctly lively, appealing work."

The A.C.P. provides a thirty page booklet and critiques the collegiate newspapers on coverage and content, writing and editing, editorial leadership, physical appearance, and photography, and their various subdivisions.

Monarch Interviews S.G.A. Candidates

Charles Ahern, Jr.

1. Should the President / Vice President represent or lead the students? Yes, I feel that the President / Vice President should not only lead but represent the students. He knows the people to talk with in obtaining correct and speedy information, therefore, getting results.

2. What further action would you take on the proposals that were denied this year? I would try to cover every approach in presenting the denied proposals, by getting involved with the students and asking their ideas. More of an immdeiate response approach.

3. How would you get more students interested in Student Government Association and its activities? I would try to spend more time in the company of the students instead of hibernating in the S.G.A. office. I would talk about new activties to the students and ask for their suggestions in selecting the activities in the future.

4. Should the students have more voice in administrative decisions, and if so, how can this voice be heard? Yes. The students should have more say in the decision of the administration, by having their elected officers work with the college administration. Instead of trying to fight and close our ears to ideas and their proposals for the students, we should weigh and discuss them, not reject them totally.

Timothy A. Gleason

1. I feel that the president of S.G.A. has the responsibility to at times to do both when necessary for the benefit of all. If the situation should arise that another student is better informed on a certain issue and can shed light on the issue he should be able to speak on behalf of his group with the help of the president. The job of president of S.G.A. at times may deem him a leader but not a representative as I have previously explained. Let's face reality, nobody is infallible, but if the students vote and elect someone to the office of president, they in short are giving their confidence of leadership and representation to this one individual.

2. This past year we began the rough road of progress of student rights and responsibilities here at Saint Leo College. Also, this past year we as students have proven that we can accept responsibilities such as visitation and the organization of effective judicial systems. We were not granted all of the requests, but we did get some, and this is a start. If we can run our S.G.A. effectively and responsibly, we can be assured of one thing: the confidence of the college and members of the Board. The cliche goes, "If at first you do not succeed . . . try and try again." This is my philosophy of life. I am sure, if I am elected, that within the next year the college will and must grant greater responsibilities to the students of Saint Leo College to assure a sound community.

3. I believe for the students to be interested in the S.G.A. the leaders must show that student government is and can be effective to the entire student body. We must try to gain the confidence of the students and give them some responsibilities so that they feel needed and to be an actual part of the S.G.A. Once this fact has been established, it is up to the S.G.A. to tackle the problems that arise during the year. It is up to the S.G.A. to put the coal on the fire to ignite student opinion. "Apathy is hard to reach for it seeks no boundaries."

4. Most definitely, I feel that students not only spend a $12,000 on college but four years of their life here at Saint Leo College to better themselves for the future. With this in mind I most sincerely feel that the student should have a say in what goes on in his college, for it is his right.

Unfortunately we as students are not united to any one cause and have let apathy rule us. If we can patch these holes with unity and go together as one student body, not two, we will and can be heard. After seeing the last Trustee meeting, I feel that the President of S.G.A. should be able to attend any college meeting for he represents the most important part of this college: the students.

Dennis Hayes

1. Should the President / Vice President represent or lead the students? Saint Leo College, like any other entity, has its diversity of views and interests; therefore, it is by the very nature of his position the obligation and duty of the President of the Student Government Association to be sensitive to, the varying views and interests of the students and to subsequently work toward fulfilling their needs as best he can. And the only way that the student body President can confer these needs to the administration is by being a true representative.

The concept of a leader must not be ignored, though. The student body President does not lead the students as a sargeant leads a platoon or as a coach leads an athletic team. His leadership is more subtle. Many times students are concerned about matters of policy but have no way of expressing their feelings to the administration. In this way the President is a leader in that he senses these feelings and uses the voice of the students (S.G.A.) to accomplish whatever ends need to be fulfilled. Primarily, though, the President is a representative who must stand up for the students.

2. What further action would you take on the proposals that were denied this year? In following the representative nature of the student body President, there are two major proposals on which I must definitely take action. These include the proposal to make the President of the Student Government a voting member of the Saint Leo College Board of Trustees and the proposal that would have placed him on the President's Council, also a voting member. I believe that these two proposals have priority in that they would not only give the students better representation and voice in the establishment of college policy, but it would also bring the students into a closer contact with the administration, something which is needed on the Saint Leo campus.

Also, for those students 21 years of age or older, I would work toward establishing a section in the dormitories in which these students might enjoy the full rights of a legal adult. With the apparent increase in off campus living, this would afford those students who cannot find off campus housing the opportunity to enjoy the full liberties that are rightly theirs.

I would like to add that these proposals passed both the student Senate and the S.G.A. Executive Board by a marginal vote. If we hope for any chance of these proposals to be made policy, we must continue to strive for them.

3. How would you get more students interested in Student Government Association and its activities? It is impossible to go to all the students and ask them to get involved; this interest lies in the members of the Senate. Rather, by keeping the students thoroughly informed as to the activities of the Student Government Association, we could best draw interest. This information would emphasize areas of importance that would significantly affect the students and that would subsequently induce them to express concern. Students could then express their feelings in such ways as necessary student body meetings or more effectively, by personal contact with their elected leaders. When they see that students are working for students in areas of importance, their curiosity and interest will come to the surface.

4. Shoudl the students have more voice in administrative decisions, and if so, how can this voice be heard? Definitely so, since the nature of the S.G.A. is that it is the self-governing voice and body of the students of Saint Leo. Accordingly, the student voice should be as strong as possible.

Most significantly, the student voice can be heard more strongly and effectively if the student body President is allowed to sit on the Board of Trustees and on the President's Council with both voice and vote. Further, the President must establish the best contact with the students as possible and can thereby fulfill his representative obligation. He can then better present the needs of the students to those higher up on the echelon.

Kevin Callahan

1. If they did not I think the whole purpose of S.G.A. would be defeated. My own personal feeling is that to represent you have to lead, yet one must use his or her best judgment and lead in a way that would best benefit the common good of all.

2. If I were elected and did nothing, I feel this would be a great breach of contract on my part to the students of Saint Leo. I feel that many of the proposals will be put into effect in time – but it is also up to the student leaders to keep slugging for the students.

3. I would say the only way to do such is to show the students that Student Government can be effective in helping the students in their needs and responding to their wants. This is a very hard task – yet I strongly feel it can be done.

4. Yes, I feel the students should have much more say in all administrative decisions – I will only say look at the food problem we had this year on campus – we were never told or consulted on this matter – I feel that the Student Government Association if effective is the best channel for the students to turn to. After all, the student government officers work for the entire student body.

Mike Petresky

1. Should the President / Vice President represent or lead the students? Yes, I feel the students should help as one group using the President and Vice President as spokesmen for them.

2. What further action would you take on the proposals that were denied this year? No answer.

3. How would you get more students interested in Student Government Association and its activities? First, I'd like to start with elections itself. Personally I was very unhappy with the turn of voters in last year's election. If there's one thing I'd like to see that's at least 80% of the student body voting this year or in the future. Also, make it more known just what the S.G.A. is, just what it can accomplish if the whole student body backs them.

4. Should the students have more voice in administrative decisions, and if o, how can this voice be heard? Yes, and as I said above, the S.G.A. must let it known through more boosters, flyers, and also have the S.G.A. back the (Monarch), so they have more issues going out per week. Maybe there could be a program set up where senators and students who are elected can get credits for their work, maybe some incentive could be helpful.

Mac Wiseman and John Hartford

BLUE GRASS COMES TO LEO

Mac Wiseman has had something to do and say. It's Bluegrass or plain peoples' music, there's no tag that can be applied, let's just say, it's Mac Wiseman's music.

ON FRIDAY, MARCH 16, Student Government Association is sponsoring a "Bluegrass" concert featuring Mac Wiseman with the Shendoah Cut-Ups, and John Hartford. The concert will be held in the Bowman Activities Center at 8:00 p.m. Admission is free to all students and $2.00 for others.

Mac Wiseman has been playing the guitar since he was twelve years old. He has come a long way from the mining camps of Tennessee, all the way to the prestigious Newport Folk Festival, to Carnegie Hall, and now to Saint Leo College. The Bluegrass music he plays is in the purist form. College concerts and Bluegrass festivals have been demanding and consuming a large segment of his time. Also playing at the Bluegrass concert will be John Hartford. John has been reviewed as "the only lyricist in current popular music who's fit to be called a poet." He creates magic with a six string guitar.

There's nothing like a concert especially if it's Bluegrass. These Bluegrass concerts are the biggest thing to hit college campuses since the "hootenannies" of the early sixties.

John Hartford is a highly skilled, creative musician. His skill as a lyricist is just as great. His music is a combination of Bluegrass and rock. He calls it "grass rock."

"CONSTITUTIONAL CRISIS" MANSFIELD

Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield says that President Nixon by continuing to refuse to spend Congressionally appropriated funds risks a Constitutional crisis. Mansfield says we will just have to see if the Constitution means what it says. If it does the Congress is on good grounds.

NIXON PLANS BIG CUT IN EDUCATION FUNDS

The administration plans to spend only $32 million of $270.6 million in appropriated education funds. This means the administration is going against Congressional orders that the money be spent by June 30 of this year. The 238 million remaining will be spent in fiscal year'74.

NIXON FUND GETS BIGGER

President Nixon although unable to run again has amassed the largest political war chest in history 4.9 million dollars.

INTERIOR DEPARTMENT CONSIDERS LAW CHANGE

The Interior Department is considering asking Congress to change the present law which is preventing the Alaskan oil pipeline from being built. This would have the effect of widening the right of way needed for the 800 mile long pipeline. Despite claims that serious environmental damage would result from its construction, the state's two senators are urging passage of such a measure.

SENATORS ASK HALT TO ATOMIC TESTS

Thirty Senators have signed a resolution urging the President to stop underground atomic testing. Senator Kennedy said the resolution, if passed, would have only an advisory effect. It would be an expression of the Senate's desire to see the President sign a test ban treaty like that of 1963 with Soviets, stopping all underground testing.

ECONOMIC NEWS NOT GOOD

The Labor Department reports that unemployment during February increased from 5.0 to 5.1 per cent. Also reported was a 22 year high in wholesale prices. Industrial prices rose by 1.1 per cent; farm products rose by 3.9 per cent in February compared to 3.3 in January. The overall rise was 1.9 per cent which puts the wholesale price index up 8.2 per cent above last year. Thus, it cost $12.69 to buy $10.00 worth of February 1967 goods in February 1973.

Nixon budget could result in Recession. Leonard Woodcock, President of the United Auto Workers, while asking Congress to impose heavier taxes on the wealthy, said Nixon's plan to cut 12 billion dollars from the 1974 budget will choke current expansion. Woodcock suggested more spending financed by tax reform is safer than a sudden budget cut.

WHAT THE POLLS ARE SAYING

Both the Harris Poll and Gallup Poll reveal Americans are growing alrarmed by the biggest prices in 22 years. Gallup found six out of ten persons in this latest survey identified inflation as the biggest problem. Harris has released results that indicate 74 per cent of the people think prices are higher than a year ago. Harris also found people are concerned that the current "good times" will not last; only 38 per cent of the people believe that the U.S. will not be in a recession next year.

GENERAL MOTORS IS SCARED

The nation's largest auto maker GM is facing what it calls a "business catastrophe." This could happen says GM if the current guidelines for emissions on 1975 autos are maintained. Ford has voiced similar concern saying it has spent $146 million so far in good faith but it can't meet the deadline.

$20,000/00 CALLEY COLLECTS

(CPS / ZNS) – LIEUTENANT WILLIAM Calley has collected $20,000 in federal salary payments from the government since he was convicted of murdering 22 Vietnamese civilians in March 1971. Calley has been able to continue to collect and spend his $10,600 annual salary thanks to a personal intervention in his case by President Nixon.

Calley was found guilty of murder charges stemming from the My Lai massacre March 31, 1971 – and was immediately ordered stripped of his uniform, stripped of his salary and imprisoned. President Nixon, however, intervened in the case and ordered that Calley merely be confined to his quarters at Fort Denning, Georgia, until his conviction could be fully reviewed.

Nixon's decision restored Calley's salary and other benefits, and since then Calley has collected a total of $20,000 in pay from the government. A military spokesperson said that Calley will not have to repay any of the money in the event his conviction is upheld. Although the Lieutenant is under house arrest, he is permitted to stroll around his furnished apartment and the grounds outside, to keep a pet dog, and to watch his color television set. Calley's girl friend reportedly comes by each day to do his shopping and cooking.

WILL GRAY GET FBI JOB?

There is now considerable doubt in the Senate as to whether L. Patrick Gray, acting FBI Chief, will get the job on a permanent basis. Senator John Tunney of California said Gray's nomination was "Quite improbable" if John Dean, counsel to the President, refuses a Senate invitation to appear before the Senate Judiciary Committee. The Committee wants Dean to testify on matters concerning his actions in the Watergate bugging incident and his handling of FBI files. Dean is also the man who recommended that G. THEATRE STUDENTS SCORE AT CONFERENCE

SAINT LEO, FLA. – Ten Saint Leo Theatre students accompanied by Dennis and Lois Henry of the Division of Fine Arts attended the recent Southeastern Theatre Conference in Pensacola, Florida.

In competition with 600 other college and university students, five of the Saint Leo students auditioned for the 100 to 150 summer jobs available.

Each applicant had one minute in which to impress one of the "casting directors" with a prepared scene. All Saint Leo students that auditioned received two or more "call backs." Sheila Flemming, Beverly Borough, Tiny Jalowski, Cindy Benson and Lyn Perez. received a total of 36 "call backs" from fifteen different professional summer stock companies. Some of the companies attending included: Alppha Omega PLayers,

During intervals from auditioning and interviewing, students attended lecture demonstrations, panel discussions and play productions that rounded out the conference.

Music Review

LEON RUSSEL CONCERT

by Bob Morris

LEON RUSSELL, A rock superstar, played last Saturday night to a capacity crowd of 20,000 in Tampa Stadium. Leon came out in a pure white outfit and met a crowd aroused by the New Grass Revival, a fast playing country band. He came out to his band, the Rev. Patrick Henderson and the Heavenly Allstars, who were playing as he came on. The old fashioned tent revival music was led by Leon's singing and playing as he continuously rocked from one song and into the next. He played his latest hit single, "Tightrope," as the crowd was in awe of the high powered rhythms of his music.

Don Preston, the lead guitarist, showed his power and ability to manipulate the guitar during his solo, "Delta Lady." Along with Leon's preaching and singing gospel music, his showmanship brought the show together. The constant vibrations kept the intimacy between the stage and crowd and they never let up as Leon didn't wait for applause. Other songs by the group are an assortment of rock and roll or gospel music. "Roller Derby Queen" and "Alcatraz" kept the crowd on their toes while the more mellow "Quinn the Eskimo" and "Baby Blues" sent the people away "buzzing."

ORGANIZATIONAL NEWS

THE BROTHERS OF Kappa Alpha Sigma would like to congratulate the following new brothers on their initiation into the fraternity: Donald Durheimer (Otto), Roy McNally, Rick Mente, Tommy Romano, John Hayden, Tony Albanese, Ed Markey, Dennis Nearey, John Ring.

All Greeks are reminded of the keg party at the KA house on St. Patrick's Day following the Greek games. Come on out!

We would also like to congratulate Anne Kemesis on being nominated as our Greek Goddess representative.

The basketball team had a fair season, finishing with a 4-6 record, but the brothers all exemplified a very high spirit.

WE ARE LOOKING for a successful softball season with Coach Steye Guinter steering the way.

We would like to wish Bruce Boland a speedy recovery. Bruce was taken ill over the break.

Good luck Greek Weekend.

Richie O'Brien

THERE HAVE BEEN rumors circulating about Richie O'Brien. Richie was in a car accident during the mid-semester break. He has been contacted by Student Body President Pat Seery and it has been learned that Richie does not have any feeling in his right arm, but other than that he is fine and in high spirits. Those interested in sending cards may write to: Richie O'Brien, Riverview Hospital, Redbank, New Jersey.

Richie also expresses his thanks to all those for their concern.
